

Load as much personal gear as possible in Seattle.

Bring your own bath towels.

Bring contact lens solution

Bring your medications

Bring soap, shampoo, etc

Bring bath mats for stateroom bathrooms.

Bring a shower caddy with suction cups for shampoo etc. in the showers.

If you are going to be working on the fantail, you should have "working deck shoes" with reinforced toes, steel or fiberglass toed boots/shoes (the latter may be better in cold environments).

Be prepared to give short science talks (scheduled weekly).

Bring cash or checkbook for purchases in the coffee bar or commissary.

Be aware that the science party is responsible for cleaning the bathrooms and sweeping/mopping the floors in the lab areas and the 02 deck (science berthing) and science lounge areas on a weekly basis.

They may check stateroom cleanliness on a weekly basis, so they should be kept tidy.

Sheets must be cleaned by the departing scientists. If people plan to leave the ship early in the morning, they may want to bring their own set of sheets or a sleeping bag for the last night.
